About Carolyn Lantz...

Carolyn Lantz grew up on a farm surrounded by animals. But today, instead of caring for horses and steers, she's now "chief bush guide" to mobs of joeys, boomers and flyers—otherwise known as kangaroos, wallabies and wallaroos. It's all in a day's work for Lantz, founder and president of Aussie Kingdom in Elizabeth, Colorado.

Lantz passionately believes in creating opportunities for people to connect with animals on a personal level. "We're more likely to preserve and protect what we know," she says, speaking of her work with the creatures of Aussie Kingdom.

In addition to traveling the U.S. as the Aussie Kingdom tour guide, Ms. Lantz is active in the Parker, Colorado Chamber of Commerce, the International Association of Fairs and Expos, Florida Federation of Fairs, and the Zoological Association of America.
